ALZHEIMER'S/MEMORY CARE

Lions Gate offers people with dementia or Alzheimer's a separate neighborhood. With memory impaired, like assisted living, we provide 24-hour support and structured activities to ensure resident safety and quality of life. Many families try to care for their loved ones at home, which can be extremely difficult given the skill that is required to care for a person with memory problems.

If you need to consider a community, understand that Alzheimer's care is delivered in the assisted living setting, as well as in our nursing homes. Generally, the residents live in semi-private apartments and have structured activities delivered by trained staff members. Memory care is secured with some locked areas to ensure no one wanders off. Despite the secured areas, residents have access to outdoor walking paths or gardens.

Also Known As:

- Memory Care
- Dementia Care

Twenty-four hour skilled nursing services are available from licensed nurses. Long-term care residents generally have high care needs and complex medical conditions that require routine skilled nursing services. Residents typically share a room and are served meals in a private dining area. Activities are also available.
